

I am sending this to plead with you not to weaken New Jersey's most successful consumers protection law. The Do Not Call program has been a Godsend. I do not want to have to deal with telemarketers, etc. In addition to your average citizen, to people like me with disabilities, it is a nuisance to get to the phone just to find that the caller is not someone you want to speak to, just someone annoying trying to sell you something, etc. Since I would never buy anything or contribute to anyone who invades my privacy by calling me, I don't see why I should have to tolerate this inconvenience.
